Belgians are one of the largest, strongest horses in the world. One Belgian can pull 8,000 pounds. If two Belgians are raised and trained together they learn to pull and think as one, and the team can pull 30,000 to 32,000 pounds.

Bagyui Ponies live in the Philippines where they are handled by “pony boys” who make their living caring for the ponies. The boys help children and their parents with pony trail rides.

Bell Boots protect the coronary band (just above the hoof) if the horse over-reaches with a hind foot.

Barrel Racing is a rodeo event where a horse and rider race around a pattern of three barrels in the fastest time.

Blinker Hood keeps a young horse from seeing behind him, and worrying about the rider on his back or the buggy following him.

Please encourage everyone to wear a helmet while on a horse.
